Internal auditing standards are integral to the Compliance and Ethics Program. Data will be collected and analyzed on a regular basis to assess CompanyName’s compliance with established standards of practice, in particular: quality, documentation, billing, and reimbursement guidelines.

CompanyName will employ a variety of techniques including, but not limited to, the following:

1. Periodic interviews with management personnel regarding their perceived levels of compliance within their departments or areas of responsibility.
2. Questionnaires developed to poll personnel regarding compliance matters as well as the effectiveness of individual training techniques.
3. Periodic written reports of department managers, utilizing assessment tools developed to track specific areas of compliance.

4. Audits designed and performed by internal and/or external auditors using auditing guidelines.
5. Exit interviews of departing employees.

The Compliance and Ethics Officer will ultimately be responsible for coordinating formal audits; however, the audits may be performed by internal or external auditors or another designee. The auditors should: possess the qualifications and experience necessary to adequately identify potential compliance issues; be objective and independent of management; and have access to relevant personnel, records, and areas of operation; present a written evaluation concerning compliance activities to the Compliance and Ethics Officer; and specifically identify areas where corrective actions are needed.

Auditing and monitoring should be conducted regularly, and written reports must be presented to the Compliance and Ethics Officer and Compliance and Ethics Committee at least quarterly. Any areas of potential noncompliance shall be kept confidential.

The Compliance and Ethics Officer shall analyze the results of the auditing and monitoring to determine the root cause. On the basis of these reports, the Compliance and Ethics Officer and Compliance and Ethics Committee shall determine an appropriate response.

Response

When potential compliance issues arise, CompanyName will take reasonable steps to respond appropriately to the offense and prevent future similar offenses. As such, CompanyName has established a system for responding to compliance issues as they arise including investigating, retaining legal consultation, updating policies and procedures, implementing corrective action plans, and, when appropriate, remitting payment and/or reporting misconduct to appropriate authorities. It is the responsibility of all associated with CompanyName to assist in resolving compliance issues by participating in good faith in CompanyName's response to potential compliance violations, including cooperating when CompanyName is conducting investigations and abiding by corrective action put into place.

Reports received through either a reporting mechanism or through some other mechanism (e.g., auditing), shall be documented and assessed initially by the Compliance and Ethics Officer. If the initial assessment indicates that there is a basis for believing that the conduct reported constitutes noncompliance, the matter shall be reported to the Compliance and Ethics Committee for review.

All instances of potential noncompliance shall be investigated carefully to determine whether the allegation appears to be well-founded. The Compliance and Ethics Officer shall promptly begin an investigation in accordance with the following procedure:

1. Compliance and Ethics Officer shall commence an investigation as soon as reasonably possible, but in no event more than thirty (30) days following reasonable suspicion of a compliance violation.

2. What corrective action, if any, should be taken.
3. Whether the allegation warrants reporting.

CompanyName shall respond to compliance problems promptly and thoroughly by putting into place corrective action. Corrective action shall be imposed as a means of facilitating the overall goal of full compliance. Corrective action plans should assist affected individuals including, but not limited to, CompanyName employees, vendors, or business associates, to understand specific issues and reduce the likelihood of future noncompliance. Corrective action shall be sufficient to effectively address the particular instance of noncompliance and should reflect the severity of the noncompliance and the past adherence to compliance standards. All associated with CompanyName are responsible for actively participating in the corrective action.

The corrective action plan should identify the nature of the noncompliance and immediate correction of any harm resulting from the violation as well as the resolution of specific problems identified. The plan may include:

1. A recommendation to revise applicable policies and procedures to clarify proper protocols and/or development of new systems to safeguard against future noncompliance of a similar nature.
2. Additional mandatory training for employees, contractors, vendors, and/or business associates.

If an allegation is not substantiated, the Compliance and Ethics Officer shall keep a clear record of the investigation's conclusion as well as what factors were considered in making that determination.

Enforcing Disciplinary Standards

Active participation in the Compliance and Ethics Program is mandatory. Adherence to applicable laws, rules, and regulations as well as CompanyName's Compliance and Ethics Program will be an element in evaluating performance. Failing to report suspected noncompliance; participating in noncompliant behavior; or encouraging, directing, facilitating, or permitting, either actively or passively, noncompliant behavior may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination. Also, if CompanyName learns that an individual knowingly fabricated, distorted, exaggerated, or minimized a report of misconduct, either to injure someone else or to protect himself or herself, the individual will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Sometimes an individual who makes a report may also admit to noncompliance on his or her part. Making a report, in itself, does not guarantee protection from disciplinary action related to the underlying noncompliance. However, volunteering information about one's own errors, misconduct, or noncompliance will be taken into account, as long as the admission is complete and truthful, and was not already known to, or about to be discovered by, CompanyName. The weight to be given to the report will depend on all the facts known to CompanyName at the time disciplinary decisions are made.

All disciplinary actions are applied consistently and in accordance with well-publicized guidelines. All compliance-related disciplinary policies are fairly and firmly enforced; as a general rule, similarly situated employees committing similar offenses under similar circumstances shall be subject to the same discipline. However, the form of correction or discipline provided will be case specific and may be based on a variety of factors including whether the employee promptly reported his/her own violation, severity of the offense, previous incidents involving the individual, whether the employee cooperates fully in investigating/correcting the violation, and the individual's commitment to a positive change in behavior.

The range of disciplinary action to which persons may be subject include the following:

1. Verbal Warnings
2. Written Warnings
3. (Paid or Unpaid) Suspension from Employment, or Revocation of Contract
4. Termination

Some acts or omissions of employees and others associated with CompanyName shall result in immediate termination. Also, individuals who commit negligent or reckless violations of laws, rules, regulations, or Company policy shall be terminated immediately.

Non-Intimidation and Non-Retaliation

CompanyName has a policy of non-intimidation and non-retaliation for all affected individuals, including Medicaid recipients and their family members, for good faith participation in the Compliance and Ethics Program including, but not limited to, reporting potential issues; cooperating or participating in the investigating of issues; participating in self-evaluations, audits, and remedial action; and/or making reports to appropriate officials of inappropriate conduct.

Reassessment

CompanyName believes that a thorough and ongoing evaluation of the various aspects of the Compliance and Ethics Program is crucial to its success. Therefore, CompanyName performs a periodic reassessment of the Compliance and Ethics Program to evaluate its effectiveness and to make any necessary adjustments.

In order to evaluate the effectiveness of the Compliance and Ethics Program, CompanyName will employ a variety of techniques including, but not limited to, the following:

1. Periodic interviews with management personnel regarding their perceived levels of compliance within their departments or areas of responsibility.
2. Questionnaires developed to poll personnel regarding compliance matters including the effectiveness of individual training/educational techniques.
3. Periodic written reports of department managers utilizing assessment tools developed to track specific areas of compliance.

If a government agent makes requests or demands of you inconsistent with these instructions, seek the advice of the Compliance and Ethics Officer.

ATTACHMENT C POLICY AGAINST HARASSMENT

POLICY

CompanyName intends to provide a work environment that is pleasant, healthful, comfortable, and free from intimidation, hostility, or other offenses that might interfere with work performance. Harassment of any sort - verbal, physical, and/or visual - will not be tolerated.

WHAT IS HARASSMENT?

CompanyName is committed to equal opportunity and non-discrimination in all aspects of employment, including hiring, promotions, and the work environment. CompanyName endeavors to foster a congenial work environment in which all individuals are treated with respect and dignity. Each individual has the right to work in an environment that promotes equal opportunity and prohibits discriminatory practices, including sexual and other forms of harassment.

CompanyName expressly prohibits any form of harassment or discrimination against any affected individual based on sex, race, color, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, marital status or veteran status, or any other factor illegal under federal, state, or city law (any of which is referred to as an "Unlawful Category"). Improper interference with the ability of an affected individual to perform their expected job duties is not tolerated.

Harassment or discrimination is unacceptable on CompanyName's property, or in other work-related settings.

DEFINITIONS AND EXAMPLES OF HARASSMENT

For purposes of this policy, harassment is defined as unwelcome or unwanted conduct, whether verbal or physical, based upon race, sex, religion, or any other Unlawful Category. Harassment occurs when the unwelcome or unwanted conduct is made a condition of employment, utilized for decisions affecting employment (including, but not limited to, promotions, hiring, and firing), used to create an intimidating or hostile work environment or found to unreasonably interfere with an individual's ability to work.

Examples of the type of conduct that constitutes harassment include, but are not limited to: physical conduct, verbal conduct, display of harassing pictures or materials, name calling and jokes which are based on Unlawful Categories such as race, sex, national origin, sexual orientation, disability, etc.

COVERAGE

This policy covers all CompanyName affected individuals without exception. CompanyName will not tolerate, condone, or allow harassment, whether engaged in by fellow employees, volunteers, interns, appointees, associates, consultants, independent contractors, vendors/contractors and subcontractors, agents, Chief Executive and other senior administrators, supervisors, managers, executives, Governing Body Members, corporate officers, 1099 employees, and service contractors, or other non-employees who conduct business with the company. CompanyName encourages the reporting of all incidents of harassment, regardless of who the offender may be.

COMPLAINT PROCEDURES

While CompanyName encourages individuals who are being harassed, or subject to discrimination, to promptly notify the offender that his or her behavior is unwelcome, CompanyName also recognizes that power and status disparities between an alleged harasser and a target may make such confrontation extremely difficult. Whether or not such informal, direct communication between individuals is effective, CompanyName requires that the complaint be reported in the following manner:

If an individual has been subjected to harassment based on an Unlawful Category, or believes he or she has been treated in an unlawful, discriminatory manner, whether by a coworker, superior, or other non-employee who conducts business with CompanyName, the individual should promptly report the incident, either verbally or in writing, to his or her immediate supervisor. In the event the employee believes it would be inappropriate to discuss the matter with his or her immediate supervisor, the employee should report it to CompanyName's Compliance and Ethics Officer.

All reports of harassment or discrimination will be reduced to writing by the person receiving the complaint and signed by the complainant. If a person other than the Compliance and Ethics Officer receives the complaint from a CompanyName employee or agent, he or she will promptly confer with the Compliance and Ethics Officer who will coordinate and direct an investigation into the allegations.

Where necessary, CompanyName may employ a Compliance and Ethics Attorney, a lawyer or consultant to investigate the complaint and provide guidance in handling the matter.

The complaint will be investigated expeditiously. While CompanyName endeavors to keep the complaint confidential throughout the investigatory process, please be aware that CompanyName will only do so to the extent practical and appropriate under the circumstances.

RESOLVING THE COMPLAINT

Upon completing the investigation of a complaint and conferring with counsel and CompanyName's management, if necessary, the Compliance and Ethics Officer will communicate his or her findings and intended action to the complainant and alleged offender.

If CompanyName determines that an individual is guilty of harassing or discriminating against another individual, appropriate disciplinary action, up to and including termination, will be taken against the offending person. Appropriate sanctions will be determined by the management of the company in consultation with the person conducting the investigation, Compliance and Ethics Attorney, and/or any outside counsel or consultant so engaged. In addressing confirmed incidents of harassment, CompanyName's response, at a minimum, will include reprimanding the offender and preparing a written record of the offense. Additional action may include, but is not limited to: referral to counseling, withholding of a promotion, reassignment, temporary suspension without pay, financial penalties, or termination.

RETALIATION PROHIBITED

CompanyName will not in any way retaliate against an individual who makes a report of harassment or unlawful discrimination or provides information concerning such actions, nor will it permit any employee to do so.

Retaliation is a serious violation of this policy and should be reported immediately. Any person found to have retaliated against another individual for reporting harassment or discrimination will be subject to the same disciplinary action provided for offenders.

FALSE ACCUSATIONS

If, after investigating any complaint of harassment or unlawful discrimination, CompanyName determines that the complainant or purported witness falsely accused another knowingly or in a malicious manner, the complainant or witness, as the case may be, will be subject to appropriate disciplinary action.
